Clocks, calendars, and church bells

Tell us how to mark the passing minutes, days, and years.

We see the years in the faces of friends

But so often
our own changes go unnoticed.

We are always growing, reaching,

stretching

Relying on others
As well as

utilizing our own strengths
To make all of our time important.

We have all progressed,
advanced, and matured

Suddenly we realize that time has done its work on us,
our friends
and others around us.

We can turn back and look at our memories
But we can never return.

Those times so easily marked on their occurence
Are no longer measurable.

When we boarded the bus our freshman year, we had no idea what lay ahead of us. Everyone had heard those rumors about being "flushed" in the bathroom or getting beaten up by upperclassmen. It was frightening to go from being the big kids down at Edwards to being the youngest students in the high school. Those first weeks were full of questions. How do you join a fall team? What if your locker is really far from your class? What time does C lunch end? When do you have to be in your homeroom? We all made it, though, and we were well enough established to win Play Competitions in our freshman year with our hilarious presentation of "It's Cold in Them Thar Hills".

By the time sophomore year rolled around we were old hands at high school life. We laughed at all the baby freshmen running around and asking stupid questions about homerooms and fall sports. It seemed like our school's routine had been a part of us for years, and it was as though we had never gone to Edwards. That was the year of the final Spree Day when the now-famous tug-of-war took place. It did not matter whether we won or lost (although we all know who really won), what was important was the fact that our class had pulled together as a unit and worked for something. It was a sign of our growing up.

Our junior year sped by in a flurry of excitement. Getting our licenses opened up a whole new world; there was no more "my parents will drive one way" to contend with on the weekends. The Centrum opening up right nearby also offered us a concert for practically everybody's taste. It seemed like we had just started planning it, when suddenly our Junior Prom was upon us. The fateful date of Friday the thirteenth did nothing to dispel our excitement, even when we had to switch restaurants midstream. As we watched the class of 1983 graduate, it hardly seemed possible that we were next in line and had only one year of high school left.

This fall it was strange to think that this would be the last time we would watch the leaves change colors from our familiar, secure positions. As we sat on the bench and watched the "little kids" file in it seemed like eons since our freshman year. Not only had we all developed our own personalities, but our class as a whole had become a closely-bound group. Fall blended quickly into winter which rapidly changed to spring. We wandered through the halls humming strains of "Pomp and Circumstance", being fitted for caps and gowns, and trying to escape exams. As we exited the parking lot beeping our horns, we may have exuded a feeling of relief, but there is still a shadow of those quaking freshmen in each of us. So now, as you grasp your diploma, stop to think just for a minute and remember how it felt to be confused about C lunch.

OLD FAITHFULS

West Boylston is a typical New England town, so it is not unusual for families to have lived here for generations. Many students have parents who grew up here, and sometimes it seems as if everyone in the community is related. These two pages are a tribute to those students in the class of 1984 who have spent all twelve years of school at West Boylston High School. They are twelve-year lions — West Boylston's old faithfuls.

Principal

Mr. Carlton O'Connor has been employed at West Boylston Junior-Senior High School since the school opened in 1957. He is a dedicated and caring man with just the right amount of strictness to deal out discipline fairly.

Mrs. Maureen Marshall joined the staff recently — in 1982. With amazing speed she fit right in with the faculty and students. She is a true worker and just disciplinarian as well as possessing a charming personality.

Thanks to both of these people and to all the teachers in the following section for their guidance throughout the years.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS, MY FRIENDS,
WE THOUGHT THEY'D NEVER END
WE'D SING AND DANCE FOREVER AND A DAY.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL . . .

"Aunt Miranda's Will" is the story of Helen and Gloria and their escapades with the men in their lives.

Gloria devises a plan for Helen to capture Gene's attentions away from Inez. Things become even more complicated when a letter arrives from Gene's wealthy Aunt Miranda saying she wants to meet her "niece Jean". In an effort to keep Gene's sex a secret, he is transformed into a girl.

This play kept the audience laughing, especially the wobbly antics of Gene in his high heels.

A PEARL OF A PLAY

SHOOTING STARS

"The show must go on . . ." and the show did go on. March twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth West Boylston High School put on its sixth annual spring musical, "Funny Girl". Mel Lavoie was a huge success as Fanny Brice, and Randy Finn portrayed Nick Arnstein dashingly. Other stars from the class of 1984 who helped to bring the house down included Kim Akins, Kristen Boosahda, Michelle Chenard, Dave Cullen, Jenni Dick, Lisa Fallavolita, Ron Goodale, Karen Hill, Erin Mahoney, Cindy Pearcy, Debbie Slack, and Amy Smith. The enjoyment of the cast showed through on stage as they danced and sang their way through the life of Fanny Brice.

The show wouldn't have gone on as well as it did without all the help from Mr. Monroe, Mr. Leslie and Mr. Maynard . . . and, of course . . . what would a show be without all the devoted entertainers . . . those lovers of the stage?

ALL PSYCHED UP . . .

We started this year's pep rally with a few selections from the band; the fight song got everyone in the right mood. Then the cheerleaders pepped everyone up to beat David Prouty.

Next there was an inter-class competition. Four people from each class dressed and undressed each other while blindfolded. The seniors won this contest, as well as the entire Homecoming Week.

Mr. Maynard, band director and enthusiastic member of the faculty, was presented with a plaque for his spirit and support of the students throughout his years at West Boylston High School. He has always encouraged the students to do their best in every area of the high school community.

Afterwards, the court was announced and Ron Goodale was named Homecoming King of 1983. Ron has consistently lent his energies and enthusiasm to many activities and organizations, and is known to all as a spirited leader.

The eighth annual Homecoming football game, with the West Boylston Lions playing against the David Prouty Panthers, started off with much enthusiasm from everyone. With the band playing "Happy" and the cheerleaders doing their routine, the football team charged through the hoop.

The Lions and the Panthers battled through four quarters of an exciting and intense game. The Lions lost with a score of thirty-eight to twenty, but our spirits remained undaunted.

A FRIENDLY CHARADE

The theme for this year's Homecoming Week was friendship. The week began with Monday, Class Spirit Day. Each person was asked to display their spirit by wearing something stating their year of graduation or grade. Tuesday was Twin Day. Everyone involved chose a friend and they dressed identically. The best twins for the day were Darlene DiBara and Lynne Newton. Wednesday was announced as Couples' Day.

Students were asked to dress as famous couples. Kris Cleary and Kim Morris were the winners of the day for their creative portrayal of Mickey and Minnie Mouse. The annual scavenger hunt took place on Thursday morning. A lollipop, a movie stub, and a pearl ring were three of the items for which students scrambled. The class of 1986 was the winner. The day's theme for dress was Clash Day. Friday, in keeping with West Boylston's tradition, was Blue and White Day. A pep rally was held in the gym last period of the day.

"Just The Way You Are" was the theme song of this year's Homecoming Dance, and it represented the friendly spirits cultivated throughout the week. The dance brought to a peak the excitement which had been building, and when Stardust began to play the students let loose and danced wildly.

At ten o'clock, Homecoming King Ron Goodale introduced the Homecoming Court, and they danced with their escorts to "Just The Way You Are". The court consisted of Sherri Greene, Marianne Mullen, Kris Cleary, Linda Woods, Darlene DiBara, Meri Robinson, Lisa Fallavollita, and Erin Mahoney. During the Court Dance Ron crowned Erin Mahoney the Homecoming Queen of 1983.

The Homecoming Queen represents the enthusiasm of the students and is traditionally someone who has done a lot for her class as well as the entire school. Erin Mahoney has been on the Student Council for four years and has run many activities. This year she was the captain of the cheerleaders and the Homecoming Committee Chairperson. Mrs. Bositis has always been a great help to the school by advising the Homecoming Committee for many years. Both people should be commended for their contributions to the school.

Our Junior Prom — "Songbird" — departed from many traditions of past years, and became the most original, exciting prom our school has ever had. This gathering was an opportunity for parents and friends to visit with and photograph all the prom-goers in one place, eliminating the need to race from house to house in order to take group pictures. Decorating the cafeteria that afternoon brought our class closer together and helped to keep us busy as we awaited that very special evening.

AN HONORABLE GROUP

In April of 1983 Scott Baker, Kris Boosahda, Natalie Danford, Randy Finn, Karen Hill, Shelley Sirmans, and Debbi Slack were inducted into the National Honor Society. The ceremony honored the students' scholarship, leadership, character, and service. They participated in the traditional candle-lighting ceremony and heard speeches from Mrs. Marshall, Mr. O'Connor, and Mr. Sullivan before taking an oath to serve their school and community.

Mrs. Gagel took over the post of National Honor Society advisor this year with much enthusiasm. The first order of business was electing officers. Scott Baker was elected President; Randy Finn, Vice-President; Natalie Danford, Secretary; and Shelley Sirmans, Treasurer. The National Honor Society joined with the Student Council to give a Christmas party for the Senior Citizens. They contributed food baskets, which were raffled off, and truly enjoyed serving the elderly. This party exemplified the good-heartedness of the organization.

Every other year the French IV and V classes travel to Quebec for four days. The French-speaking members of the class of 1984 took their trip in October of 1982, and for those who went it was one of the highlights of their high school years.

They set off early on October sixteenth in high spirits. The bus ride was a long one, but the students entertained themselves so that the eight-hour ride seemed to speed by (well, almost). They arrived in Quebec that evening, exhausted but glad to be there. Maybe some other students would have run to their rooms at the Hotel Clarendon to shower and to catch up on much-needed sleep, but these kids couldn't rest when there was a city to explore! They wandered the cobblestone streets and browsed through shops until dinner time. After a delicious meal in a quaint, typically French restaurant they went for a ferry ride on the St. Lawrence River. The wind was whipping that night, but these adventurers found the breathtaking view of Quebec lit up at night was worth braving the cold for.

After a somewhat disappointing breakfast the next morning they set out for a sightseeing tour. The group was split in two and put on two minibuses which shot perilously through the narrow streets. (This experience was even more "breathtaking" than the view of the previous night.) It was an exciting, if speedy, introduction to the city. Afterwards the group partook of a sumptuous buffet in the revolving Astral Restaurant atop the Concorde Hotel. Stuffed to the gills, they headed to the Citadel for a tour of the famous fortress. They also visited the Musee du Fort for a sound and light show depicting some famous battles in Quebecois history. Dinner that night was at a crepe restaurant, and the night was topped off with a few hours of mingling with the natives at a roller-skating rink.

The next morning began with a visit to St. Anne de Beaupre — the church of miracles. Its walls are lined with crutches and braces of crippled people who have been cured there. They stopped for a they met and lunched with students their own ages. All too soon the trip was over and they were on the bus heading back to West Boylston. Although everyone was sad to leave and had thoroughly enjoyed the trip, it was with patriotic relief that they crossed the border into the United States and saw the American flag snapping in the breeze above the customs office.

delicious snack of bread, baked in roadside ovens and slathered with maple butter, before proceeding to Montmercy Falls. The magnitude of these falls is incredible, and those who ventured too close found themselves soaked to the skin. That night there was an exciting episode involving the capture of two thieves, which concluded with Lynn Bernstein assisting the police by identifying the criminals. The students took caleche rides that evening. (A caleche is a horse and buggy in which one rides around Quebec City.)

The only activity on the last day was a visit to a high school where

On Sunday an exciting and colorful parade marched through West Boylston. The weekend peaked with a fireworks display.

Our class has a lot of hams, and these outgoing actors and actresses were put to good use on December 9 and 10, 1983, in the Senior Play — "Meet Me in St. Louis". Cheryl Carlson put on a stellar performance as Rose, and Erin Mahoney, Lynn Lajoie, and Natalie Danford were equally terrific as her sisters. Ron Goodale did a wonderful job as their father (with Karen Hill as his wife) and Jim Jardine completed the family as the fifth child. Other members of the cast were Andy Beardsley, Kris Boosahda, Dave Cullen, Randy Finn, Russ Howard, Gayle Petty, Shelley Sirmans, Debbi Slack, Amy Smith, and Judy Young. Though not in our class, Niki Stanley did a superb job as student director; she was assisted by Lisa Fortin. Thanks also go to Mr. White for his direction and to Ron Goodale for all his work on sets.

The class of 1984 has always excelled in Play Competitions. Freshman year we captured the hundred dollar prize with our hilarious presentation of "It's Cold in Them Thar Hills". This hillbilly comedy was a real attention-grabber. In 1982 we presented "Wake Up and Love", a take-off on "A Midsummer Night's Dream". Our third play was "Aunt Miranda's Will", an hysterical plot involving a mix-up of identities and romantic jealousy.

IN THE HUDDLE

Thanksgiving Day is traditionally marked by its spectacular football games. This year, for the second time in thirteen years, the West Boylston Lions defeated the Grafton Indians. The day ended with a victorious score of fourteen to twelve. This was achieved by the great defensive line of the Lions. All the players made the game a fantastic one in Lions' history.

This game highlighted a solid season for the Lions. They got back on respectable footing in their league after several poor seasons. Receiver Jeff Cranston played especially well and was named to the Telegram and Gazette All-Star team. Every player should be congratulated for his efforts.

Things were looking up this year for our football team. The cheerleaders really enjoyed this season, especially after the big win over Millbury to begin it all. The fans were very supportive and the team loved to hear "LIONS" shouted across the field.

Although their 2-12-1 record doesn't sound spectacular, the soccer team was very successful in setting team records this year. They scored more goals this season than ever before and also achieved their highest score in any game. Co-captains Andy Beardsley and Brent Rose helped to show the team how to pull together and contend with some league rivals. The team even achieved their first Homecoming victory by beating Bay Path Regional High School, and winning before the home crowd is a great feeling.

DRIVING TO THE TOP

The field hockey team had a sensational season and reached the qualifying rounds of the Districts by placing third in the league. The team has improved consistently for the past several years, and it was a real thrill to see them excelling on the field under the supervision of their coach, Mrs. Schofield. Co-captains Kim Kenneway and Jane Haddad were extremely pleased to lead the team through the most exciting season they have had in a long time, and this year's promising Junior Varsity players will continue to provide exciting play for years to come. Both teams earned their records through hard work and earnestness and both deserve congratulations for a true triumph.

READY, SET, GO!

Both cross-country teams have consistently done well over the years. This fall the girls' team attained a record of nine wins and four losses, and the boys' team had nine victories and five defeats. The girls also placed third in the Southern Worcester County League Meet. Both teams are young, so there is a lot of potential for more victorious seasons in the next few years. The boys' team — coached by Mr. McGrath — had only one senior, captain Scott Baker, but they had a strong season nevertheless.

Running is basically an individual sport, but after working out and training together day after day the teammates grow closer and join together to cheer each other on at meets. Though their times and statistics are kept individually, cross-country is truly a team sport.

THROUGH THE HOOP

This year the boys' basketball team got off to an admirable start. Their powerful leaps and bounds led them to a sensational season. The team's vitality packed in the crowds and kept the fans on the edges of their seats. The school was proud to have these young men representing us. Craig Halloran was named as Telegram and Gazette Player of the Week early in the season, and we were never disappointed by his performance or anyone else's. In every game they kept up a fast and thrilling pace. Regardless of the final score, the Lions are always winners!

EN FRANCAIS S'IL VOUS PLAIT

The French Club members have a real "joie de vivre". Advisor Miss Scopelliti helped them to organize their contribution to the Foreign Language Christmas Party, which included a French production of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" with Jo Ann Bruhn in the lead role. President Karen Hill made this a year full of field trips and other projects for the club.

Amy Capman, Janet McGuiggan, and Kelly Maynard create a pinata.

Chuck Stevens clowns around.

ABRAN LOS LIBROS . . .

The Spanish Club's biggest event is the Foreign Language Christmas Party. They work for weeks making pinatas and practicing Spanish Christmas carols. This year they produced a version of "A Christmas Carol" in Spanish, with president Lynn Lajoie as Tiny Tim. The club also takes field trips throughout the year.

DO-RE-MI

A large part of many students' years at West Boylston High School is their participation in the Band or Chorus. These two talented groups put on exceptionally good concerts this year. Their programs included a little bit of everything from classical to popular and were a huge success at both the high school and the middle school — where they presented an afternoon concert to the delight of the younger students. Mr. Maynard has been encouraging talented musicians for years, and continued to do so this year.

"CHEESE"

The Camera Club's main purpose is taking pictures for the yearbook. With the help of Mr. Bouvier, students learn to take and to develop their own pictures. The results of their efforts can be seen throughout this year's Lion's Roar.

Mr. McGrail leads the Audio-Visual Club in aiding teachers with the school's equipment. These students learn how to operate projectors, overheads, and video recorders.

ROLL 'EM

WORTH 1,000 WORDS

The Art Club is a civic organization in the truest sense of the word. They are continually contributing to the community by donating Christmas ornaments to the elderly and by painting the sets for plays and musicals. This group of talented students — along with their mentor, Mrs. Boosahda — are to be commended for their efforts.

HOLD THE PRESSES

The Graphic Arts Club helps us to keep track of what's going on by printing up athletic schedules, programs, and tickets. With the help of Mr. Silven they act as official printers for the school, and are a tremendous aid to all organizations.

West Boylston High School traditionally puts on fantastic dramatic productions, and this would not be possible without the Drama Club working all year. This year the stage was refinished to provide a better setting for the musical, Senior Play, and Play Competitions. The Drama Club also works with set design, props, and costumes to ensure that students at West Boylston High School will be "acting up" for years to come.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

SHOUT!

Spirit runs wild at West Boylston High School, and that's why the Pep Club is such a large and active group. They attend athletic events and cheer on the Lions. These students are proud to display the blue and white.

The only requirement for admission to the Varsity Club is participation in a varsity sport, and since our school is full of enthusiastic athletes it has one of the biggest club memberships. Mr. Garafoli is the advisor to this muscular crew.

JOCKS

WHAT'S COOKING?

The Home Economics Club is always stirring things up. They entertain people of all ages by going to the Oakdale Nursing Home and also by hosting a program for younger students from Major Edwards Middle School. With the help of Mrs. Gruszka this group will be baking, cooking, and sewing for years to come.

Laura Clemence cooks.

Business Club members take courses in typing, shorthand, and accounting. They learn how to run a business, but the club is not just made up of future entrepeneurs. Many of these skills are needed for other purposes and these students are getting a head start on their futures.

MIND YOUR OWN

STRAIGHT AS AN ARROW

The Archery Club is an individualistic organization which brings together students who shoot target practice on their own. Mr. White (an avid yeoman himself) organizes them to encourage them in their hobby.

BOOK-WORMS

The Library Club assists Mrs. Stewart with all her tasks as librarian. They help to sign books out and to return them to the shelves, as well as keeping the library a neat and quiet place to study.

The Ski Club takes many exciting trips to ski areas up north as well as participating in the after-school ski program at nearby Wachusett Mountain. It is one of the largest and friendliest clubs we have.

HIT THE SLOPES

CAPITOL HILL

This year the Student Council took a different approach to their work. Instead of concentrating on rules and regulations, the group decided to sponsor more activities which would promote good feeling in the school. In addition to running the school store, doing afternoon announcements, running the concession stand, and meeting every week to keep student-administration communications open, the Student Council raised money for an elderly lunch, gave an elderly Christmas party, and started a Secret Santa exchange with the faculty. They also instituted Dress-Up Days in December. President Meri Robinson, Treasurer Mary Papandrea, Secretary Robbie Hayes, and Vice President Kim Akins kept things running smoothly along with Mrs. Hudson, their involved and supportive advisor.

Meri Robinson travels to a convention.

SOLIDARNOŚĆ

Classes are not the only valuable use of time in school; sometimes the time between bells is just as important. It is a time to socialize with friends and prepare for the next class. As the school year goes on, some lockers become second homes for people, others become pigsties. No one can deny that those precious few minutes spent burrowing among books or exchanging gossip are as big a part of school as the hours spent in classrooms.

MAKING A LIVING

The class of 1984 is an industrious group. A large number of us hold down part-time jobs besides handling the responsibilities of school and extra-curricular activities. A lot of students work in town at restaurants like Pinecroft and stores such as The Fair and Audrey's Hideaway. These workers are as important a part of keeping the town's industries and businesses running as many adults.

Every year there is an appreciation page in the yearbook with which the editors attempt to thank all the people who have helped to produce the book, and every year they thank Mrs. Bouvier. We realize that one page could never be enough to repay her for everything she's done for us. Mrs. Bouvier has an incredible ability for creating rapport with kids and that talent has made her our assistant, our teacher, and our guide — but most importantly it has made her our friend. It takes a very special person to share herself with a time-consuming project like the yearbook, and Mrs. Sharron Bouvier is just that. Thank you, thank you to an outstanding woman.

There were too many people on the yearbook staff to list in this space — and we thank every one of you sincerely — but two people really put themselves out for us and we feel it necessary to express our gratitude to Karen Hill and Erin Mahoney for their willingness to help out at any time. Lisa Larose was our diligent ad salesperson. Also, thanks and good luck to Mary Papandrea.

Mr. Edward Bouvier was a tremendous help to us and this book is filled with examples of his photographic talent.

Thanks to Mr. Winthrop Handy for his patience with our demands.

Mr. Ronald Schofield, Dr. Richard Danford, Mike Drake, Rachel Kardon, and Gayle Petty also donated pictures to the 1984 Lion's Roar which were greatly appreciated.

Love and thanks,
Natalie and Shelley

NEED MONEY FOR SCHOOL?

GET A LOW COST STUDENT LOAN FROM WCiS

Higher education costs can really put a dent in your wallet. But more and more students are finding that a low cost student loan is a relatively pain-free way of taking the edge off tuition bills.

And there are other things students are discovering: the low student loan interest rate of just 8% for new applicants, and the money that's available—up to $2,500 a year for undergraduates and $5,000 a year for graduates.

And you can apply to the school of your choice. Over 7,500 colleges, universities, technical and hospital schools across the United States are eligible for this student loan program.

To find out more, or to apply for a student loan, call or visit any WCiS office.
